

And as (at least in some of these cases) it may be expedient and necessary, as well as just, that the sentences of the courts of vice admiralty should be revised and corrected by the court of appeals here; the undersigned hopes it will appear reasonable to order that the captives in question, (who have not already so done) be their admitted to enter both their appeals and their claims.

The undersigned also finds it to be his duty to represent, that the irregularities before mentioned, extended, not only to the capture and condemnation of American vessels and property, and to unusual personal severities, but even to the imprisonment of American citizens, to serve on board of armed vessels. He forbears to dwell on the injuries done to these unfortunate individuals or on the emotions which they must naturally excite, either in the breasts of the nation to whom they belong, or of the just and humane of every country. His reliance on the justice and benevolence of his majesty, leads him to indulge a pleasing expectation, that orders will be given, that Americans, so circumstanced, be immediately liberated, and that persons honored with his majesty's commissions, do in future abstain from similar violence.

It is with cordial satisfaction that the undersigned reflects on the impression which such equitable and conciliatory measures would make on the mind of the United States and how naturally they would inspire and cherish those sentiments and dispositions which never fail to prevail, as well as to produce, respect, esteem and friendship.

(Signed) JOHN JAY.

The undersigned secretary of state has the honor to lay before the king the ministerial acts which he has received from mr. Jay, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from the United States of America, respecting the alleged irregularity of the capture and condemnation of several American vessels, and also respecting the circumstances of personal severity, by which those proceedings are stated to have been accompanied in some particular instances.

The undersigned is authorized to assure mr. Jay, that it is his majesty's wish, that the most complete and impartial justice should be done to all the citizens of America, who may, in fact have been injured by any of the proceedings above mentioned.—All experience shews that a naval war, exceeding over the four quarters of the globe, must unavoidably be productive of some inconveniences to the commerce of neutral nations, and that no care can prevent some irregularities in the course of those proceedings, which are universally recognized, as resulting from the just rights incident to all belligerent powers.—But the king will always be desirous that these inconveniences and irregularities, should be as much limited, as the nature of the case will admit, and that the fullest opportunity should be given to all to prefer their complaints, and to obtain redress and compensation, where they are due.

In mr. Jay's note, mention is made of several cases, where the parties have hitherto omitted to prefer their claims, and of others, where no appeals have been made from the sentences of condemnation pronounced in the first instance.

As to the cases of the first description, lord Greenville apprehends that the regular course of law is still open to claimants; and that by preferring appeals to the commissioners of prize causes here, against the sentence of the courts below, the whole merits of these cases may be brought forward, and honest complete justice obtained.

In the cases of the second description, the proceeding might, in some instances, be more difficult, from the lapse of the time usually allotted for preferring appeals.—But his majesty being anxious that no temporary or local circumstance such as those to which mr. Jay refers in his note, should impede the course of substantial justice, has been pleased to refer it to the proper officers to consider of a mode of enlarging the time for receiving the appeals, in those cases, in order to admit the claimants to bring their complaints before the regular court appointed for that purpose.

The undersigned has no doubt that, in this manner a very considerable part of the injuries alledged to have been suffered by the Americans, may, if the complaints are well founded, be redressed in the usual course of judicial proceeding, at a very small expence to the parties, and without any other interposition of his majesty's government than is above stated:—until the result and effect of these proceedings shall be known, no definitive judgment can be formed respecting the nature and extent of those cases, (if any such shall not have been practicable to obtain substantial redress in this mode)—but he does not hesitate to say before hand, that, if cases shall then be found to exist, to such an extent as properly to call for the interposition of government, where, without the fault of the parties complaining, they shall be unable from whatever circumstances, to procure such redress, in the ordinary course of law, as the justice of their cause may entitle them to expect, his majesty will be anxious that justice should at all events be done, and will readily enter into the discussion of the measures to be adopted, and the principles to be established, for that purpose.

With respect to all acts of personal severity and violence, as the king must entirely disapprove every such transaction, so his majesty's courts are always open for the punishment of offences of that nature; and for giving redress to the sufferers in every case where the fact can be established by satisfactory proof; nor does it appear that any case of that nature can exist, where there would be the smallest difficulty of obtaining, in that mode, substantial and exemplary justice.

On the subject of the impress, lord Greenville has only to assure mr. Jay, that if, in any instance, American seamen have been impressed into the king's service, it has been contrary to the king's desire; the fish cases may have occasionally arisen from the difficulty of discriminating between British and American seamen, especially, where there so often exists an interest and intention to deceive:—Whenever any representation has been made to lord Greenville on the subject he has never failed to receive his majesty's commands for putting it in a proper course; in order that the facts might be enquired into and ascertained; and so intent that the persons in question might be released, if the fact appeared to be satisfactorily established.

With respect to the desire expressed by mr. Jay, that new orders might be given with a view to prevent, as far as it is possible, the giving any just ground of complaint on his head, lord Greenville has no reason to doubt that his majesty's intentions respecting this point are already sufficiently understood by his majesty's officers employed in that service: but he has nevertheless obtained his majesty's permission to assure mr. Jay, that instructions to the effect desired, will be renewed in consequence of his application.

The undersigned avails himself with pleasure of this opportunity to renew to mr. Jay his assurances of his sincere esteem and consideration.

(Signed) GREENVILLE.
Downing street,
1st August, 1794.

Department of state, Oct. 1794.
I hereby certify that the foregoing representation by mr. Jay to lord Greenville, of the 30th July, and lord Greenville's answer of the 1st August, are truly copied from the originals on file in the office of the department of state.

GEO. TAYLOR, jun. chief clerk.

Lexington, November 29.

The following is copied from a Hand-bill printed in Pittsburg November 3.

We take the earliest opportunity of laying before our readers the following answer of his excellency governor LEE, commander in chief of the federal volunteers, to the address of the Washington Committee. This we received by an express from Union Town.

Your declarations of the good intentions of the people of Washington county who have been pleased to depute you to present to me certain papers containing assurances of fidelity to government, cannot but excite the most agreeable sensations in my breast. To restore happiness to our beloved fellow citizens of this country by restoring to them the compleat enjoyment of the blessings dawning from the government established by the people of the United States, is the chief object of the advance of the army under my command, and its day here will depend on the execution of the work.

Those individuals to whom may justly be attributed the awfull crisis which has arrived, among the many grounded tales which they have industriously circulated to mislead their fellow citizens in pursuit of their wicked and ambicious schemes, told them that the execrable law was odious to the people, that the administration was corrupt, that British gold and British influence swayed the measures of Congress, and that under this load of complicit guilt it was only necessary to erect the standard of opposition to government, to secure the accomplishment of your mistaken wishes.

Unfortunately for your peace, and our happiness, you believed their assertions, and a species of violence disgraced to the name and character of the United States encased; they told you too, that no army could be brought into action against you by the government, and had the audacity to repeat their assertion even after the troops had reached their points of rendezvous.

Such was your delusion, that no counter-declaration on the part of government obtained any credit: at length you begin to discern the truth, and to know your real good—You see a formidable force suddenly collected in obedience to the law of Congress, crossing the mountains at a very inclement season of the year, determined to subdue all who may dare to resist, and anxious to protect all who submit to the constitution and laws.

Hereafter you cannot credit the tales of the vicious and designing, because your experience of their baseness and falsehood is so impressive and solemn as to leave no doubt in your minds of the perils to which they have exposed your lives and fortunes. Derive wisdom from experience, confide not in the man who courts your respect by defaming your government, and be as sincere in your active endeavors to restore order, as you are warm in your professions to do so: then will my talk be easy, and your future felicity certain.

Return to your country and assure your fellow citizens that no man will receive injury either in person or property from the army—Advise them to bring to our camp all the necessaries of life they may have to spare, for which promise I make from me a fair price in cash. Tell them it is the pride, as it is the duty of all my fellow citizens in arms with me to maintain, and not to violate the laws of our country, and tell them further that such is the positive injunction of the President of the United States: at the same time mention to all, my expectation that exactions in price will not be attempted by any, because it would not only manifest a want of sincerity in the professions of friendship which have been made on the part of the inhabitants, but would convey a decree to deprive the troops of those articles essential not only to their comfort but to their health, to which deprivation no consideration can induce me to submit them.

BY YESTERDAY'S MAIL.

NEW-YORK, November 1.
The Brig Fox arrived yesterday from Antigua, bringing Antigua papers of October 13, which contains the following important article:

That upwards of forty transports have arrived at Spithead with British troops from Scotland, to fit the continental war seems now to be entirely abandoned."

The same paper mentions the arrival of the Brig Governor Johnson, in five weeks from London, which gives September 3, for the day of his departure—this vessel reports that twenty-five transports with troops lay at Cowes, ready to sail for the bays, and that Lord Howe's fleet of thirty-five sail of the line, and five frigates lay in the bay.

This paper also contains the following important articles:

The British Camp at Guadalupe has capitulated; and we understand the same will be sent to England, not to serve against the French during the present war.

By the last vessels from Guadalupe, we are informed that the French were within a very few miles of Batactere.

This is all Guadalupe in the hands of the armagnacs; a circumstance which must considerably affect the politics of the British cabinet—but doubtless the royalists will still consider this place in a state of siege.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.
Sunday last arrived the ship Manchester, Captain Cox, in fifty-two days from Liverpool. A gentleman who came passenger in this vessel says, that the French have taken Quicnoy, Valenciennes, Condé, Breda and Bergenop Zoom, and were pushing on to Amsterdam, where it was expected they would have little resistance, as great numbers of pat lots were ready to join them—he confirms the taking of St. Sebastian's &c, with the additional conquest of Bilbao—Stocks kept up in London through the amazing influx of money and plate from Holland—Lord Howe was at sea, with twenty-eight sail of the line. The foreign squadron was running to Lisbon. This gentleman has brought letters from Mr. Jay to the Secretary of State.

Monday last being appointed for the meeting of the Congress of the United States, a number of the Members of both Houses assembled in this city, but not being a quorum adjourned till this day.
